Dear Clients and Associates:

The health and safety of our employees and industry partners are top priority, so with the current concern regarding COVID-19 we want to provide details on the precautionary measures we are taking to mitigate the spread of the virus.

Rhino Labour is closely monitoring updates on COVID-19 and is following the latest recommendations provided by the Public Health Agency of Canada (PHAC), BC Centre for Disease Control, and the World Health Organization (WHO).

For current information and updates regarding COVID-19, please visit the following:

Public Health Agency of Canada (PHAC)

World Health Organization (WHO)

<https://www.who.int/emergencies/diseases/novel-coronavirus-2019>

In addition to the regular cleaning and disinfection of our offices every day, our staff are disinfecting high-touch areas throughout the day.

At this time, Rhino Labour will discontinue non-essential site visits until this crisis has passed. Our sales team can be reached via phone and email.

At Rhino Labour, the health and safety of our clients, staff, and associates is top priority. We will continue to provide you the valuable service you have come to expect.
